ment prepared. The equipment required for the movement of a Division without their table of equipment is, 480 pullman cars, 60 kitchen cars, 37 baggage cars, 28 box cars and 75 flat cars.

Is "Big Time" Job.

"The work of the transportation office at Camp Atterbury is a 'big time' job. Again, since this is a railroad occasion, the figures of business handled by our transportation office during the past twelve months will be of interest to you. These figures do not include the Reception Center or the Separation Center, which will add considerably to their work.

"The number of men shipped from Atterbury to other posts, camps or stations (all via rail) during the past twelve months total 67,287. During the same period 14,942 transportation requests were issued. There were 396 passenger trains in and out of camp. Via rail 2,813 carloads were received and 2,209 less than carload shipments came in. Plenty went out, too. There were 1,381 car load shipments forwarded via rail and 1,814 less than carload shipments."

Refers To Camp's Future.

Continuing his discussion, Col. Modisette reviewed the movement of men and materials by other means of transportation and gave a general resume of the activities of the camp concerning which he said, "Camp Atterbury which has always been recognized as one of the finest camps in the country, is fairly certain to remain for some time. We may have other organizations there to receive their training—but largely the new and present responsibility is as an administrative and medical center."

He discussed the expansion of Wakeman General and Convalescent Hospital, designation of Atterbury as one of the 18 War Department Personnel Centers in the United States, operation of the prisoner of war compound, the effective salvage program which is in operation, the repair of clothing and materials, cooperation in tire and gas rationing, and other services.

War Is Not Over.

His interesting review of the Camp's activities was concluded with the reading of an editorial which appeared recently in the camp newspaper, The Crier, entitled, "The War Is Not Over" which pointed out that despite the successes which had been won, the war was not over and concluded with the statement, "The best way to shorten this war is to plan, prepare and work for a long one."

The program for the luncheon was arranged by Marshall Barnard
